1. General Augustin Guillaume, new French Resident General in Morocco, reported on his cool reception by the Sultan when he returned to Paris for consultation on 13 October 1951. During the conversation between Guillaume and the Sultan, the latter said that when Morocco was about five years of age, France had given the young country a suit of clothes and now, twenty years later, is surprised that the same suit no longer fits.

2. The French Foreign Office shares the attitude of General Juin and General Guillaume toward the Moroccan Nationalists, recommending strong measures against them. [REDACTED] the French assumption that the Sultan does not have the full support of the country is entirely wrong; source is of the opinion that 90 percent of the Moroccans side with the Sultan.
